The Big Show.

The attendance at the St. Louis Exposition is disappointing to the management, and an appeal is being made to the newspapers throughout the Union to aid in giving greater publicity to the show and in urging people to attend. The Times-Disputch is most willing to aid every newspaper, which helps to increase the attendance performs a public service. The St. Louis Exposition is by far the saw, and it is in a high degree educational. It is a great popular school, and every American citizen who can do so should attend both for the pleasure and

The Philippine exhibit is a show within itself, and it is well worth a visit to St. Louis to see it. The Filipinos are living in the Exposition grounds, as they live at home. All sorts of exhibits are made, showing the products and mode of almost every tribe from the savage Igorrotes, to the well-drilled soldiers and person to the accomplished musicians. It is, indeed, an interesting study to go into ages on their native heath, living precisely as they live, at home, living in hovels without a vestige of furniture, the men dressed in their birthday suits the women all smoking cigars, men and women taking part in their weird dances, eating dog flesh with keen relish; then ject lesson, illustrating what training burg, a little tussic for third place in trast between the savage, Igorrotes, and the well discipled soldiers and musicians of the better class. Bryan's plan is interesting, but it is up to him to work out the details. We hope that he will be more specific. If he does not mind, some people will think that he is visionary.

INSIDE HISTORY.

Senator Daniel Tells About His Part in the Proceedings.

Fart in the Proceedings.

To the Editor of The Sun:
Sir,—There is an interesting article in The Sun of July 18th on the Democratic Convention at St. Louis, which styles it "the most remarkable of National Conventions." Permit me, if you please, to make these comments:

1. In this article it is said: "Chairman Danks, and a number of the styles."

Daniel and a number of others advised Mr. Hill that in deference to Mr. Bry-an's wishes the so-called money plank ought to be eliminated."

ought to be eliminated."

As to myself, this is not the fact. On the contrary, I took the floor and spoke carnestly in favor of keeping in the platform the money plank as reported by the subcommittee, and would have supported any strong clear expression to the effect that the careful with the contract the contract of the contract the contract of th supported any strong, clear expression to the effect that the question of the gold standard was settled. I expressed myself to this effect in the convention, which fact the article does not notice.

As to Governor Hill, inc did not consent, to my knowledge, that the gold plank be eliminated, nor do I believe he did. On the contrary, the article itself would seem from its face to show the contrary, for it says: "The money plank of the subcommittee was then voted down by the full Committee on Resolutions by a vote of 50 to 15." This was not "consent to elimination," but a vote against the money plank, Governor Hill and myself beling of the fifteen in favor of it. There were not 50, but 35 against it.

2. A minority report would have been made in favor of recognizing the gold standard as settled, but for the fact that it would have produced, as members of the effect that the question of the gold standard as settled, but for the fact that it would have produced, as members of the committee (Mr. Bryan and others) declared, other minority reports from them on a number of questions, and great confusion would have resulted. So it was agreed that no minority reports be made.

3. It was argued by the Hon. John Sharp Williams and others that New York had said nothing in its platform on the money question; that by general con-

Sharp Williams and others that New York had said nothing in its platform on the money question; that by general consent the question; that by general consent the question, was regarded as settled; that there was no used in noticing a dead issue; and the late in noticing a dead issue; and the late of showing if was regarded as dead. There were members of the committee who have been constant gold men all through the contest who took this view and voted accordingly. This was the reason, for the most part, that produced the vote of 35 against noticing the question. While logically offered, the public view soon showed that it did not coincide as to the meaning of silence, and this view led to the vote of the convention endorsing Judge Parker's telegram, which was greatly larger, than the original vote for him. This fact is a demonstration that 18 greatly stremething in the country, by his manly and upright course.

The writer of the article does me 4. The writer of the article does me the honor to say, after speaking of the discontent expressed by some in an excited way about Judge Parker's telegram, that "Senator Daniel was calmer, but none the less troubled." True, everybody was to some extent "troubled" by the commotion the telegram caused. But Mr. Sheehan came to me immediately, and at once I took the gold plank of the subcommittee.ls.hand. went to the stand, took mit Feat-by the chairman, and at once I took the gole plank of the subcommittee, Ia, hand, went to the stand, took miy seat-by the chairman, and was about to take the floor to offer it as an independent floor the committee, others concurring, came to me and suggested that as I represented a compromise report I should offer no other resolution. I replied that I might differ with him, as the platform matter was ended and an exigent situation presented, but I would not debate a question of propriety, and yielded to this opinion. Accordingly, I returned to my delegation, and did not speak until Mossrs. Tiliman, John Sharp Williams and others, who orignally opposed the money plank, had supported Judge Parker's telegram.

Then in a plain way I gave my view to the convention, commending Judge, Parker's course, and in a short while the convention took action favoring Mr. Williams's resolution to the like effect by an overwhelming majority.

Williams's resolution to the like the by an overwhelming majority.

I take the liberty to ask you to publish this, as I do not wish either my colleagues of the committee or myself to be misunderstood.

MAKERS OF RICHMOND

Brief Sketches of Men Who Have Helped to Make the City. Sketch No. 25-Series Began June 26, 1901.

Major James D. Patton, though a native of Danville, is indeed a Richmond man. His chiire life, since young manhood, has been spent here, and he has been both active and prominent in the business, social, military and political life of the city.

Born in Danville, October 11, 1850, he was educated in the schools of that city and Baltimore, and came to Richmond in 1874. His first business association here was with the old and widely known house of A. Y. Stokes and Company. After spending four years with that firm, he entered into the tobacco supply business on his own account in that firm, he entered into the tobacco supply business on his own account in 1878 and conduced it with increasing success for many years. In the last few years, Major Patton, in addition to his large interests in the tobacco business, has been and is now associated with many other enterprises. He is vice-president of the Virginia Packing Company, which does an immense business; president of the Richmond Leather Manufacturing Company, an president of both the Richmond Passenger and Power Company and the Richmond Traction Company.

Power Company and the Richmond Traction Company.

Major Patton has always taken a deep interest in public affairs. He was long an active spirit in the First Virginia Regiment, and was its major from 1882 to 1885; served in the City Council from 1880 to 1884, and in the House of Delegates from 1885 to 1887. Major Patton 1880 to 1887, Major Patton has always taken deep interest in State and national politics. He is a close personal friend and ardent admirer of Sen-

NOSE IS BROKEN.

Houdon Bust of Lafayette Has Long Been in This Condition.

The Marquis de Lafayette was hanged yesterday afternoon in the libby of the State Capitol. When, however, he was lowered to the floor he was none the worse for his temporary suspension at the end of a taut rope. The Houdon bust of the great French benefactor of the American colonies, which has long gazed at the heroic effigy of his friend, George Washington, from a niche in the southwest corner of the rotunda, was yesterday taken down by means of a small derrick and packed with his pedestal préparatory to removal to the State Library building.

When the marble face, was lowered to the floor, many for the first time, became aware that the great Frenchman hid long worn a patched nose. The member was broken from the bust of Lafayette in 1824, just before the visit of the distinguished Frenchman to this city in that year. Old records of that date chronicle Long Been in This Condition.

Old records of that date chronicle the fact that there was great terpidation among the admirers of the Marquis less the should arrive before the broken nose was repaired. The work was successfully accomplished, however, and the Marquis never knew of his disfigurement, and the repaired nose has withstood the ravages of time to this day, total depthy vears.

Clearing the Capitol Garret
Colonel John W. Richardson, register box arranged by means of ropes and pulleys so as to lower the great mass to books and papers from the garret of the Capitol to the floor of the portice, greatly expediting the work of clearing of the garret of the accumulation of years. He referred to the craft as his airship. It was indeed a comical sight to see this method of unloading the weight from the floor of the garret.
